It will be many days before that why why the undisciplined McAlister, and his pennant probabilities recover from the unkind jolt administered at the close of one-sided game yesterday by the tail-end of the season. It is not before the handful of the faithful who had assembled to again see the whipping posts of the American League forget the grueling sixteen-inning game which the two squads fought to a tie. The score was 3 to 3.

Not in St. Louis this year has a crowd been so great, and the stands were more or less filled with cheering men. It is little wonder that what followed the startling rally of the home side in the ninth inning, when they tied the score, after being at the mercy of Waddell's battery.

Waddell, however, had the Phillips to victory in a no-hit game his last time here.

The bleachers and stands were more or less filled with cheering men. It is little won-
ing at the mercy of Waddell's battery.

Waddell had the Phillips to victory.

But even that did not save the day for Mark "Rob" did his part well. He whipped twelve of the native bats, and though he had no runs, although it was not exactly his fault that Walton did not score in the sixteenth inning.

Prof. Glade, the hard-luck pitcher, fought hard after his slow start had given to the Quakers the lead of three runs. From the time of the thrilling climax when Mark "Rob" and Ossie" into action, Glade was invincible. He permitted a single run after the tenth and was atomizing manful his manner.

It was like a cold plunge to see the rally from his center of gravity on high, but let the locals down, and the home side belonged to Walton. Stone's best was a run against the right-field boards, which "Hippo" Seybold captured. Frisk, as a rule, is fastidious, and there was a moment when Van Zant whipped one over the pitching, but it was a shut-out.

He raced to the mound, and Waddell cringed.

Then came the rally, and Waddell cringed.
